Presenter: Mr. Martin Dreyer
eResearch Analyst at the North West University, Information Technology Department

About the talk:

Are you interested in learning or strengthening some new skills?

Library Carpentry gives a solid introduction to the self-taught experience in a way that is accessible for all skill levels. You get the groundwork on which you can build skills to your exact specifications.

This introductory workshop is suited to beginners with no previous experience required.

Martin is one of 70 instructors/trainers globally, he is also on the Instructor Development Committee where he works with the Carpentries staff on a daily basis.
